

Experimental Nursery

The experimental nursery is a place where experimental plants are grown to usable environment, which are useful to protect the experimental plants from insects, birds and animals disturbance. This experimental nursery was maintaining by the Rhizosphere Biology Research Group under the Department of Microbiology. While, plant-microbe interactions in vivo related studies regularly conducting at this facility.