Centre for Distance Education (CDE) - Brief Profile

The Centre for Distance Education (CDE) of Bharathidasan University was established in the year 1992 to serve the aspirant students of eight districts under the jurisdiction of the University who could not enter the regular colleges for higher education. Subsequently, the Centre for Distance Education offer programmes as U.G., P.G., Diploma and certificate in various disciplines for the students through distance mode of education. Above all Bharathidasan University has been successfully imparting quality education by adhering the regulations of UGC DEB to till date.

Department of Education

The department of education was started in the year 2006 to offer the B.Ed. programme through distance mode with the NCTE approval to enhance the professional competency and skills of teachers working in elementary, secondary and senior secondary schools based on the merits by following state government admission norms. The department of Education has a team of well-qualified teacher educators to run the programme successfully.

Theme of the National Workshop

Teaching and learning processes have changed over a period of time due to the innovations and introduction of technology in education. The present day learner requires more focused information from a variety of knowledge sources. A single mode of using textbooks does not act as a motivator for learners today. Tapping of digital resources may help in facilitating learners. The Government of Tamil Nadu is therefore encouraging and facilitating application of digital content in the classroom transactions. The educational researchers reveal that the internet can help children to learn concepts more effectively. As technology becomes increasingly embedded in our present day lives and culture, the children are to be provided with relevant and contemporary experiences that allow them to successfully engage with technology and prepare them for life after school. This one day workshop on "Utilizing Internet Resources in Class room instruction" enlightens special care in training the participants with hand on experience which will strengthen the skills in using recent technology in class room instruction.

Objectives of the National workshop

1. To create awareness on internet resources in the class room instruction.
2. To realize the need of integrating internet resources in the class room instruction.

3. To enable the stakeholders understand the basic technology and utilize in the class room instruction.
4. To generate new ideas in satisfying the demands of the present needs of the student community.
